It is, however, built on a high brick foundation. It is five bays long and two bays deep and two full stories with a two-story porch on the facade. One chimney is built on the outside and one on the inside of the house. It is covered with clapboard and the central entrance is very simple with a plain rectangular transom. The windows of the first story are taller than those above and they have louvered shutters. The yard is enclosed by a Victorian pierced-work fence.
